Visionary Leadership

"The best portion of a good man's life is his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love." – William Wordsworth

In this modern age of Artificial Intelligence, perhaps the ultimate distinction between humans, animals, and machines is our capacity for empathy-the very foundation of kindness and compassion.

The most profound things in life are often the simplest. At our core, the fundamental human need is to feel valued; when we extend kindness to another, we are acknowledging their inherent worth. Whether it is a sincere "thank you" or the simple act of sharing a meal with a friend who has none, these small gestures forge the essential bonds that sustain us as social beings.

Kindness is a reciprocal gift. When we uplift others, we inherently uplift ourselves; the smile we receive in return has a unique power to light up our hearts and brighten our day. As the Golden Rule reminds us: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Above all else, kindness is the one thing we all truly hope to receive.

– Ms. Ruma Chaturvedi, Principal

Little Deeds, Lasting Impact

I remember a day when a classmate felt really down, so I responded with empathy and shared a few kind words. It was amazing to see their confidence grow as they started doing better in class and joining school activities. This taught me that we don't need grand actions to make a difference-just a willing heart and a sense of responsibility for how we treat others. Even tiny gestures can spark huge transformations!

– Vaishnavi Srivastava, Head Girl (Grade 5)

During a family visit, a relative mentioned that her son was very mischievous. My mother offered to keep him with us for a month, and he came to stay. Instead of judging him, I tried to understand him. He wanted to improve but did not know how. Although my first efforts failed, I encouraged him by appreciating his strengths and guiding him toward better company.

Gradually, he began to reflect and change. After one and a half months, he became more disciplined and well-mannered. This experience taught me that patience, positivity, and proper guidance can truly transform a person.

– Kartik, Head Boy (Grade 5)

Little Scholars at Work

THE BACKBONE BRIGADE

We held a special assembly for Helper's Day to celebrate how vital our diligent helpers are. They're always there for us, so we organized fun games that brought lots of laughter and smiles. We also handed out "Thank You" badges with smiley balloons that read, "YOU DO A GREAT JOB—धन्यवाद!". Our helpers were so delighted they couldn't stop smiling, with some even shedding happy tears! It felt wonderful to see them so joyful. — Aarav Rathore, Grade 4

SUR SANGAM – HINDI RECITATION COMPETITION

Our school proudly organized Sur Sangam, a delightful Hindi Recitation Competition for the students of Nursery, K1, and K2. The little participants confidently recited beautiful Hindi rhymes on meaningful topics such as Family, Technology, and Helpers. The competition not only enhanced their speaking skills but also helped build self-confidence and love for the Hindi language.

Heartiest congratulations to all the winners and appreciation to every participant for their enthusiastic performance.

FLOWER PARADE – A CELEBRATION OF NATURE

Our school campus bloomed with colors and joy as we organized a delightful Flower Parade for our young learners. The event was a vibrant celebration of nature's beauty, where children dressed up as different flowers and confidently walked the parade, spreading fragrance of happiness all around.

The little participants looked adorable in their creative costumes, representing roses, sunflowers, lotuses, daisies and many more beautiful blossoms. Through this activity, children not only enhanced their confidence and stage presence but also learned about various types of flowers and the importance of nature in our lives.

The enthusiasm of the students and the support of the parents made the event truly special and memorable.

THE TINY CHEFS' JUNCTION

Our school was filled with the most delicious smells during the Non-Fire Cooking Competition! It was so much fun to see how every house used their imagination to make mouth-watering treats without even using a stove. Narmada House served up a crunchy Non-Fried Chaat, while Yamuna House made a tangy and spice-filled Jhalure Chaat. For those of us who love dessert, Brahmaputra House created a yummy Sweet Coated Bread, and Ganga House made a Swan Cucumber Salad that looked like a beautiful piece of art!

— Suyash Gautam, Grade 4

A WILD ADVENTURE – ZOO FIELD TRIP

Our young learners recently embarked on an exciting and educational field trip to the zoo. The visit was a wonderful opportunity for the children to explore the fascinating world of animals. The students were thrilled to see a variety of animals up close and eagerly observed their features, habitats, and behaviors. From roaring lions to playful monkeys and graceful deer, every sight filled them with curiosity and joy.

The field trip not only enhanced their knowledge about wildlife but also helped develop observation skills, social interaction, and a sense of responsibility towards animals and nature.

It was truly a fun-filled day of learning, laughter, and unforgettable memories for our little explorers.

SPRING OF WISDOM

Our school looked so bright and beautiful for Basant Panchami! We celebrated this special day to honor Goddess Saraswati, who is the goddess of learning, music, and art.

We all prayed together and asked for her blessings so we can do well in our studies. Our teachers told us the amazing story of why we celebrate this day, and the whole campus was dazzling with vibrant colors. It was a wonderful day full of joy!

— Ayush Kushwaha, Grade 4

Voices that Echo Freedom

Our school celebrated Republic Day with great enthusiasm through a special assembly conducted by our young learners. The celebration was filled with patriotic spirit and joyful participation. Adding charm to the celebration, students came dressed as famous freedom fighters, confidently portraying great leaders who sacrificed their lives for India's independence. The assembly was a wonderful learning experience that helped instill national pride in our tiny tots. Jai Hind!

Our school was filled with so much excitement and love for our country as we celebrated Republic Day. We started the morning by hoisting our national flag, and then my peers performed beautiful patriotic songs. We listened to interesting speeches about why this day is so important and how much India has grown. At the end, we all enjoyed some delicious sweets and felt very proud to be Indian. This celebration really helped us feel united and showed us how to be responsible citizens of our great nation. — Deshna Bajpai, Grade 5

A Greener Way to Learn

At our nurturing learning environment, education blossoms beyond books and classrooms as Grade 1 students happily took part in a plantation drive. With tiny hands, curious eyes, and joyful smiles, the children planted saplings, adding beauty to the school campus while learning to care, share, and protect nature. This gentle, hands-on experience helped them understand that even the smallest green efforts matter, planting seeds of responsibility and hope for a healthier, greener tomorrow—true to the institution's vision of nurturing thoughtful and compassionate citizens.

Kathasangam 2.0: A Tapestry of Indian Traditions

Kathasangam 2.0 was a grand celebration where stories bridged faiths and cultures. We embodied festivals—from Lohri and Diwali to Eid and Christmas—wearing their spirit, not just costumes. Tales brought Shivratri chants, Krishna's dance, Ganesh's blessings, and Navratri's rhythm to life. Every student added a thread to a vibrant tapestry of heritage, turning the stage into a mandala of art, light, and togetherness. In the end, inclusion became the festival, and stories stepped off the page to live among us.

Empowering Through Mentorship

As his teacher in B.Tech Second Year Information Technology, I would like to share an experience that strengthened my belief in guided responsibility as a tool for transformation. I observed that Aarav was academically strong and conceptually clear, yet he hesitated to express his ideas confidently. His challenge was not knowledge, but self-belief. To support him, I assigned him the role of Technical Lead for Logic Design in a major software development project. I asked him to design algorithms, prepare flowcharts, and explain the system architecture to his team before implementation. As the team relied on his logical guidance, his confidence grew steadily. By placing him in a leadership role aligned with his strength, I saw him transform into a more confident and decisive engineering student.

– Ms. Deepti Singh Jr., Gradeschool, Co-ordinator

In Class VI, group work was an important part of learning. During one activity, students were paired randomly. In one group was a boy who had many ideas but found writing slow and difficult. His teammates finished early, yet they patiently read the questions aloud, checked answers, and labelled diagrams while waiting for him, showing quiet support.

When the work was completed, the group felt proud and presented it together, sharing the credit equally. The teacher appreciated them not for their speed but for their teamwork and kindness, showing that true strength lies in helping everyone succeed.

– Ms. Deepti Singh Sr., Gradeschool, Co-ordinator

The Power of a Single Page

Reading is often viewed as a chore by some, but for one student it was simply a habit that hadn't started yet. After finding a series that finally piqued their interest, they committed to reading just three pages every night before bed. The Transformation: Those three pages quickly turned into chapters. Over the course of the month, there was a remarkable change in their vocabulary and confidence during class discussions. What started as a tiny nightly habit has opened up a whole new world of imagination. They didn't just become a better student; they became a "reader"-someone who is now curious and eager to learn more.

– Ms. Reena Pandey, Gradeschool, Supervisor

At our school, we truly believe that small steps lead to big achievements. Over the past months, teachers have witnessed heartwarming transformations in their students. A child who once struggled to arrive on time now walks into class confidently every morning. Another student has developed the beautiful habit of reading daily, showing remarkable improvement in vocabulary and expression. We have also seen children extending a helping hand to classmates, displaying empathy and teamwork.

These small yet meaningful efforts have made a significant difference in shaping their confidence, focus, and kindness. Such positive changes remind us that growth is a gradual journey.

– Aditi Tripathi, Preschool, Supervisor

Insights From Tiny Gestures

"Empathy in action: small gestures, big impact"

Working on this special edition was an incredible experience that filled me with pride! Watching my students, I realized that empathy and responsibility are key to creating real change. Collecting stories revealed how small gestures can lead to significant transformations. All it takes is a willing heart paired with empathy and responsibility. By stepping into others' shoes and taking responsibility, we can make a lasting difference. – Ms. Adhya Soni, Gradeschool Mentor

Guided by the truth that 'Kindness is a gift everyone can afford to give', our Small Acts, Big Impacts approach has revealed that how small acts of kindness can shape our students into grateful and patient individuals. Sharing, helping and listening to others has sparked a sense of appreciation and understanding in them. It is beautiful to watch them grow into caring and considerate individuals. They have learned to wait for their turn, to offer support when needed and to be thankful for the little things. It is making a real difference in our classroom culture.

– Ms. Neeti Modi, Gradeschool Mentor

While preparing this edition, I observed how deeply our students were moved by the value of kindness. Their words and actions showed that even small, thoughtful gestures-helping a friend or showing respect-can go a long way in making a meaningful difference. This reminded me that kindness does not depend on age, but comes from a willing heart. As Mother Teresa said, "Small things done with great love can change the world." May our students continue to carry forward this spirit and believe in the quiet power of their kindness.

– Ms. Saima Fatima, Gradeschool Mentor
